Proper Citation: NDSU Center for Protease Research (RRID:SCR_012223)

Description: We specialize in the synthesis of small molecules for biological applications and variety of analytical services. The facility works primarily with investigators from Center for Protease Research (CPR). However, we have always extended our services to neighboring institutions and other places all across US when possible. The facility enjoys a successful track record of achievements through service, collaborations, and interdisciplinary interactions.
