Proper Citation: Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine Center for Advanced Microscopy and Nikon Imaging Center Core Facility (RRID:SCR_020996)

Description: Core offers instrumentation and services for study of biological processes at whole animal, tissue, cellular and subcellular levels. This includes light microscopy, electron microscopy and image analysis. Light microscopy offerings include super resolution microscopy (MINFLUX, STED, NSPARC, SORA), fluorescent laser scanning and spinning disk microscopy, fluorescent lifetime imaging, automated high throughput tissue cytometry, atomic force microscopy, laser capture microdissection, multiphoton imaging, and whole animal bioluminescent and fluorescent imaging. Electron microscopy includes sample prep and imaging for TEM, SEM, platinum replicas, immuno gold and CLEM. We also provide microinjection equipment, chambers for stable live cell observation, and anesthesia equipment. CAM provides training on numerous different instrument platforms, consultation on experiment design, as well as digital image processing and image analysis. CAM is one of two Nikon Imaging Centers in the US, allowing us access and excellent support from Nikon to develop innovative solutions for the cutting edge imaging needs of users.
