Proper Citation: BioCARS (RRID:SCR_001439)

Description: Biomedical technology research center and training resource that is a state-of-the art, national user facility for synchrotron-based studies of dynamic and static properties of macromolecules by X-ray scattering techniques such as crystallography (specializing in time-resolved), small- and wide-angle X-ray scattering and fiber diffraction. BioCARS operates two X-ray beamlines, embedded in a Biosafety Level 3 (BSL-3) facility unique in the U.S. that permits safe studies of biohazardous materials such as human pathogens., THIS RESOURCE IS NO LONGER IN SERVICE. Documented on September 16,2025.

Abbreviations: BioCARS

Synonyms: BioCARS: A Synchrotron Structural Biology Resource

Resource Type: biomedical technology research center, training resource, service resource, access service resource

Defining Citation: PMID:21685684

Keywords: synchrotron, macromolecule, x-ray, crystallography, x-ray scattering, fiber diffraction, biological process, time-resolved crystallography, structural biology technology center

Funding: NIGMS P41GM103543;
NCRR P41RR007707

Availability: THIS RESOURCE IS NO LONGER IN SERVICE

Resource Name: BioCARS

Resource ID: SCR_001439
