Description: Enzymatics is an independent, ISO 13485:2003 certified OEM manufacturer of enzymes that brings to the marketplace a unique, quality oriented, and customer focused approach to protein production. The company was founded in 2006 to specifically address the needs of commercial entities engaged in the development, manufacture, and distribution of platforms dedicated to nucleic acid identification. Enzymes are critical to the performance of these applications and the industry's relentless pursuit of higher performance emphasizes the need for analytical reagent purity and absolute production consistency. Operating from the perspective that we are a manufacturing division of our customer, Enzymatics consistently delivers the highest quality and value enzymes, leveraging them to drive customer success via a partnership business model; and our tremendous success confirms the need in the marketplace for a dedicated partner in the realm of enzyme technologies.
