Proper Citation: Biomedical Informatics Research Network (RRID:SCR_005163)

Description: THIS RESOURCE IS NO LONGER IN SERVICE. Documented on February 22, 2023. National initiative to advance biomedical research through data sharing and online collaboration that provides data sharing infrastructure, software tools, strategies and advisory services. Groups may choose whether to share data internally or with external audiences. Hardware and data remain under control of individual user groups.

Abbreviations: BIRN

Synonyms: BIRN - The Conduit for Biomedical Research, Biomedical Informatics Research Network - The Conduit for Biomedical Research

Resource Type: atlas, data or information resource, data repository, database, service resource, software resource, storage service resource

Defining Citation: PMID:21515543, PMID:18348946, PMID:17238407

Keywords: dti, fmri, alzheimer's disease, cognitive impairment, collaborative environment, cyberinfrastructure, data sharing, depressive disorder, information technology, infrastructure, memory dysfunction, microarray, mri, neurodegenerative disease, neuroinformatics, neuroimaging, genetics, biomedical material, neurobiology, electrophysiology, collaboration, biomedical, imaging, imaging system, biomedical engineering, brain, health
