Description: Core assists with production, characterization and differentiation of human pluripotent stem cells. Offers services related to research on human ES and iPS cells. Provides reprogramming of iPS cell lines from patients and healthy donors, for example for in vitro disease modeling. Offers already established human ES cell lines and large bank of human iPS cell lines established through ongoing REK-approved projects. Provides ES and iPS cell characterization services, and training in the culture and maintenance of human ES and iPS cells.
