Proper Citation: Jackson Laboratory Cytogenetic Models Resource (RRID:SCR_003270)

Description: Maintains and distributes chromosome aberration stocks that provide primarily mouse models for Down syndrome. The Resource currently provides models for Down syndrome research, including: Rb(6.16)24Lub x Rb(16.17)7Bnr F1 hybrids that are used to produce Chr 16 trisomy (Ts16) embryos, which have many of the fetal developmental features of DS, and; Ts(1716)65Dn, segmental trisomy mice that survive to adulthood and have many of the features of DS. The Resource also includes stocks with selected reciprocal translocations involving Chr 16 and some Chr 16 transgenic stocks. In addition, a large number of Robertsonian chromosome stocks are held as frozen embryos in the Cryopreservation Resource. Each mouse chromosome is present in at least two different Robertsonian chromosomes in these strains so that specific trisomies for each of the 19 mouse autosomes can be produced. Breeding pairs and individual mice are provided.
