Resource Information

URL: <http://xml.coverpages.org/>

Proper Citation: Cover Pages (RRID:SCR_004955)

Description: Public reference database supporting the XML family of markup language standards, XML vocabularies, and related structured information standards. It promotes and enables the use of open, interoperable, standards-based solutions which protect digital information and enhance the quality of data processing. The Cover Pages web site provides reference material on enabling technologies compatible with SGML/XML descriptive markup language standards and applications: object modeling, semantic nets, ontologies, authority lists, document production systems, and conceptual modeling. It also supplies references for social aspects of distributed and public sector concerns: privacy, open standards, patented technology embedded in standards, etc. NB. This statement and the resource itself are works in progress, subject to continuous revision.
