Proper Citation: CDC Cell and DNA Repository (RRID:SCR_004680)

Description: A repository which houses DNA samples prepared from reference cell lines and are available for use in molecular genetic testing. The CF samples contain mutations associated with unique populations, combinations of IVS8 poly-thymidine tract variants, and mutations not previously available. Three DNA samples with homozygous MTHFR-related mutations are available. Hemochromatosis-associated samples include a compound HFE heterozygote and other combinations of HFE alleles. DNA samples with triplet repeats at the intermediate-range are available for HD and Fragile X syndrome. Mutations were confirmed in all cell lines from which the DNA has been prepared by reference testing and multi-laboratory pilot testing. Control DNA samples negative for all mutations are also available. Laboratories are encouraged to contact Coriell Cell Repositories to inquire about obtaining samples or donating samples as possible candidates for transformation.
