Description: An Alzheimer's disease center (ADC) that offers support services for families caring for persons with memory disorders, community outreach and education programs, in addition to its clinical and basic research activities. Information on current scientific and clinical findings is offered to the general public, medical and scientific community. An important emphasis of the Bryan ADRC is to advance basic medical discovery concerning AD and related dementias. This basic science mission is facilitated through the DNA cell repository located in the Institute of Genome Sciences and Policy (IGSP) and the Bryan ADRC brain donation program of the Kathleen Price Bryan Brain Bank. These affiliated Bryan ADRC programs provide a source of fresh brain tissue.
