Description: Biostatistics Shared Resource (BSR) provides free, short-term statistical support to Fred Hutch/University of Washington/Seattle Children's Cancer Consortium investigators, particularly those without dedicated funding. Services include consultations on study design, sample size, power, and analytic methods; assistance with data analysis, interpretation, and manuscripts; and development of statistical sections for grant proposals. While intended as short-term collaborations, BSR projects often lead to funded grants and longer-term partnerships with biostatisticians.
