Description: A not-for-profit research and development laboratory focused on the design, development, and deployment of advanced technological solutions for the nation's most challenging and important problems in security, space exploration, healthcare, and energy. Their expertise includes the areas of guidance, navigation, and control systems; fault-tolerant computing; advanced algorithms and software solutions; modeling and simulation; and MEMS and multichip module technology. With a strong commitment to delivering working solutions to their sponsors, they apply their expertise to a variety of domains, including autonomous air, land, sea, and space systems; information integration; distributed sensors and networks; precision-guided munitions; and biomedical engineering; chemical/biological defense; and energy system modeling and management. When appropriate for the needs of their sponsors, they will work with commercial partners to transition their technology to commercial production.
