Proper Citation: Ontology of General Purpose Datatypes (RRID:SCR_010397)

Description: Ontology that contains entities such as: datatype, datatype generator, datatype quality and others giving the possibility to represent arbitrary complex datatypes. This is an important fact for a general data mining ontology that wants to represent and query over modelling algorithms for mining structured data. The ontology was first developed under the OntoDM (Ontology of Data Mining, <http://kt.ijs.si/panovp/OntoDM>) ontology, but for generality and reuse purpose it was decided to export it as a separate ontology. Additionally, the OntoDT ontology is based on and ISO/IEC 11404 (http://www.iso.org/iso/catalogue_detail.htm?csnumber=39479) standard and can be reused used independently by any domain ontology that requires representation and reasoning about general purpose datatypes.
