Description: Tripod is a user-friendly chemical genomics browser that is currently being developed by the informatics group at the NIH Chemical Genomics Center. The main goal of Tripod is to facilitate easy access to chemical and biological data in an intuitive, user-friendly tool. To this end, the development of Tripod is inspired by the ubiquitous iTunes software, whereby browsing and managing of media contents are being adapted to chemical and biological data.

Abbreviations: Tripod

Synonyms: Tripod Development - Cheminformatics proving ground, Tripod Development

Resource Type: software resource

Keywords: chemistry, biology, informatics, chemical genomics

Resource Name: Tripod
