Description: Provides mass-spectrometry based identification and quantification of proteins. Facility specializes in functional proteomics with focus on protein proximity and protein interaction mapping. Services include access to reagents, plasmids, sample preparation, mass spectrometry, and data analysis. Applications include: proximity-dependent biotinylation mapping to identify neighboring proteins in cells ,protein-protein interaction mapping,post-translational modification identification (with a focus on phosphorylation),differential protein abundance,chemical proteomics (identifying on- and off-target binding to small molecules or biologics)., THIS RESOURCE IS NO LONGER IN SERVICE. Documented on September 16,2025.
