Description: Data for Solutions, Inc. is a small scientific consulting firm offering Comprehensive Services in Study Design, Data Analysis, Organizational and Systems Analysis and Evaluation, International Health Issues, and Scientific Writing. We specialize in research design and data analysis, with expertise in research methodology, grant development, program evaluation, quality assessment, data collection techniques, mathematical and statistical analysis, writing results for professional and peer-reviewed outlets, and creating data-driven business reports and presentations. We strive to be responsive to clients' needs and constraints, creative in our solutions to statistical and data management challenges, and determined in our attention to detail. Our mission is to increase the productive use of scientifically sound and ethical methodological, numerical, and statistical research techniques by research, instructional, and administrative professionals. To accomplish this mission, we are engaged in research, consulting, and training activities, including: ?? Providing effective client/consultant interchange through in-person appointments, telephone appointments, and e-mail. ?? Offering indirect education and consulting through Web-based tutorials, documentation, and training program development. ?? Developing and delivering training through short courses and class tutorials. ?? Providing contractual grant development and data analysis services for University faculty and graduate students. ?? Engaging in continual professional development in order to maintain technical leadership in statistical and mathematical applications. Data for Solutions, Inc. can also design individualized training for your statistical and data analytic need.
