Proper Citation: Phytome (RRID:SCR_007852)

Description: An online comparative genomics resource that is built upon publicly available sequence and map information from a diverse set of plant species, with a focus on the angiosperms, or flowering plants. It provides an interface to the results from a variety of phylogenomic analyses. Phytome is designed to facilitate functional genomics, molecular breeding and evolutionary studies in model and non-model plant species. Currently, Phytome contains phylogenetic and functional information for predicted protein sequences ("Unipeptides"). Future development will incorporate data and tools for analysis of sequence-based comparative maps.

Synonyms: Phytome
